

Real solutions: Ava's Record Speaks for Itself.

Decisive action by Mayor Ava Frisinger protects our legacy:

- Lake Tradition – 468 acres of open space saved for future generations.
- Issaquah Creek – restored for salmon, clean water, and fewer floods.
- Tibbetts Creek Greenway completed – helping save Lake Sammamish with coal mine clean-up for clean water and salmon recovery.
- Kees and Hope Creeks – restored for salmon.
- Pickering Trail and adjoining open space – saved for future generations.
- Thousands of acres of permanent open space at Issaquah Highlands and Talus – saved for future generations.

Decisive action by Mayor Ava Frisinger gets people moving:

- The Intelligent Transportation System – soon to reduce air pollution, fuel consumption, and travel time.
- High Point Trail – linking people to the Mountains to Sound Greenway safely.
- New left turn lanes from Gilman to Front Street – reducing travel time.
- SR-900 Improvements – better flow of transit and general traffic.
- Sunset Interchange – reduced travel time.
- Highlands Park and Ride – moving people not cars.
- Issaquah Transit Center – moving people not cars ...coming soon.

What other leaders say about Ava:

"It is always a pleasure to work with Ava. She is always reasonable and committed to what is best for Issaquah."

Cheryl Pflug, State Senator

"Ava represents the best in public service. Principled, open-minded and a bipartisan attitude to community problem-solving."

Glenn Anderson, State Representative

"Through the years, Ava's environmental stewardship has been unsurpassed protecting open space and the region's salmon."

Larry Phillips, Chair King County Council

"In the 7 years I was in the Senate, in my experience Mayor Ava Frisinger, always had the best interest of Issaquah in mind, and not any special interest or personal agenda."

Dino Rossi, former State Senator

"When I was in the House the things that impressed me the most about Ava was that she was an excellent listener and was always very practical."

Brian Thomas, former State Representative

"Ava Frisinger is my choice for Mayor of Issaquah."

Ron Sims, King County Executive

"Mayor Frisinger is a tireless advocate for the people of the City of Issaquah and she has become a respected regional leader on a range of issues including transportation and the environment."

Jay Rodne, State Representative
